Opmantek takes out another Award

Opmantek has added to its impressive award cabinet by taking out the Gold Coast Business Excellence award in the field of Knowledge Management and IT. This adds to an array of awards for 2013, including being named Australian Emerging Company of the Year by the Australian Association of Angel Investors (AAAI).

“I am proud to accept this award on behalf of our customers and our employees” said Danny Maher, Opmantek CEO. “Opmantek received a grant from the Gold Coast City Council to locate at the Gold Coast in 2011 and we are thrilled with the success that followed and to be recognized by the IT Community as a leader in the region. This recognition shows that Australia is capable of being a market leader in software development and is able to disrupt the traditional software development centers overseas.”

Opmantek develops innovative network management software that is used by some of the world’s largest telecommunications organisations. Over 45,000 organisations use Opmantek software.
