Opmantek has been named as one of America's most innovative companies in the 14th Annual American Business Awards.

The 2016 awards attracted more than 3,400 nominations from organizations of all sizes across a range of diverse industries.

Opmantek has been growing rapidly in the US, signing deals with several of the regions leading telecommunications providers, banks and media companies in the past 12 months. The company is considered to be one of the fastest growing enterprise software companies in the world, with a new organisation implementing one of their products every 6 minutes.

Opmantek's VP of Sales for North America, Rich Bywater, was thrilled with the latest recognition in the US "This award shows the level of awareness that the market is giving us now. A lot of that has to do with the enterprise level organisations that we are attracting through the scalability and ease of deployment that we can offer our clients."

Judges were quick to commend Opmantek on their rapid growth in the US market commenting, "Tremendous growth and the company's trajectory is superb.

Michael Gallagher, president and founder of the Stevie Awards said, "The judges were extremely impressed with the quality of entries we received this year. The competition was intense and every organisation that has won should be proud."
